LOCAL SILVER CROSS CAMPAIGN HEADS REPORT BUILDING FUND PROGRESS

ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

HARD FIGHT—Good old-fashioned Americanism has odds against it. Between anti-Americans who want to flood us with Europeans who can be only burdens to our economy, and Russian sympathizers who want us to orient ourselves to Soviet style, and just plain cranks, maintaining a semblance of staunchness of native character becomes increasingly difficult.

WHO ARE THEY?—Latest aggregation of anonymous persons whose actions bode no good for these good old United States of ours is the "National Council Against Conscription," from whom newspapers are receiving offers of mat services to fight universal training for military purposes. They pick out quotations from well-known men and distort them to no honest purpose. The only excuse I can see in their efforts is to weaken our military might so we can be easy "picking" for a dangerous enemy.

A GOOD MAN FAILS.—Mr. Truman has failed at a moment when he should have reached high stature. Not only was he wrong in vetoing the legislation which mildly regulated labor and management and threw a bit of protection around workers, but he went thoroughly wrong in misrepresentation of the legislation in explaining to Congress and, hours later, to the public via radio, his reasons for the veto.

DISAPPOINTMENT.—If the President's conscience had compelled him to the veto, the result still would have been unfortunate. But since apparently he was influenced by the worst type of political consideration, his action, his misrepresentation of facts, becomes a disaster both morally and politically. Many who had hopes for his future will be saddened by this evidence of political stupidity. It's pretty certain that we can say, perhaps regretfully, "Good-bye, Mr. President; it's too bad you have so long to stay."

DON'T WORRY.—Death from air transportation crashes are bad—just as bad as is death from train wrecks and automobile and bus smash-ups. There are plenty of them. Comparing the total number of passengers and miles flown, air mishaps' percentages are not so high. If you want to fly—just keep on flying. Remember that thousands are alive after flying through a period of nearly 40 years.

REVEALING.—Many ardent admirers of the "great" FDR must be hanging their heads in embarrassment since James Farley's disclosure of Mrs. Roosevelt's comment to him that "Franklin is unable to relax" in the presence of those socially inferior. Many who refused to be captured by the "great" man's persuasive tongue recognized him as America's greatest "high cast" exponent. Instead of the greatest "democrat" with a little "q" he turned out to be the greatest "looker-downer" on those of "lower social levels."

BAD.—In Michigan a community has been making life hard for a minister who talked about "sin" in the old-fashioned way. Many of the same crowd probably attend church and wonder why the fools of the days of the Bible prophets did not heed the preachers' words. Human nature changes slightly, if at all.

IS THAT SO?—"A little child shall lead them" is a Bible quotation frequently used. Lead whom? A child might lead a lion, but nothing less than sledgehammer blows will even force many of our "mighty" to use good sense.

CAN'T BUY.—A Japanese, a Chinese, a Burmese, with millions of others who would buy from us and make us prosperous, will continue in want until leaders of the United States and England and the latter's satellites quit trying to revamp ages-old failure methods in world economies and institute a sensible, workable program.

NATURAL.—But we act naturally. We fuss and fume if things go wrong. Wrong for us, that is. If we make enough money to eat, pay rent, or taxes, and have a bit of fun, we are filled with sunshine. It would be nice if we could see further and become a bit serious about important things. But—O, well, we won't.

Boys Are Judges

Billy Ray Knippel and Donald Hinspeter of Frankfort and Billy Schick of Mokena visited the University of Illinois at Urbana last Tuesday for the purpose of judging cattle. They were accompanied by their teacher, Elmer Rowley, and other boys of Joliet.

With 93 teams at work in Joliet and local committees formed in at least 15 different communities in Will county, excellent progress is reported in the Silver Cross hospital building fund campaign which was officially launched June 19 at a meeting in the Elks building in Joliet.

The goal of this appeal to the general public is $150,000 toward the cost of constructing a new $600,000 wing which will increase the patient-carrying capacity of the hospital from 173 to 263 beds and provide relocated, enlarged, and modernized central service facilities for kitchens, dining room, pharmacy and storage.

To enable contributors to give as generously as possible subscriptions may be paid in ten quarterly, five semi-annual, or three annual payments, permitting income tax deductions over a period of three tax years.

Local chairmen are Albert H. Krusemark, Jr., Frankfort; Green Garden township, Floyd Krapf; James D. Frazer, Homer township; Elmer Cooper, Mokena; G. F. Krog, Joliet; Fred Scheel, chairman, New Lenox.

Jarchow-Benson

St. Peter's Evangelical church in Frankfort was the scene of a very pretty wedding Saturday evening, June 21, at 7 o'clock, when Miss Dorothy Mae Jarchow, daughter of Albert Jarchow and the late Alma Jarchow, became the wife of Arthur Benson, son of Mrs. Ida Benson of Mokena, the Rev. Erich Bizer officiating at a double-ring service. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Bizer at the organ played a group of love songs, while Gordon Benson and Arthur Hostert, acting as ushers, lighted the candles. The altar was profusely decorated with palms, peonies, and roses. Miss Kay Lambrecht, accompanied by Mrs. Bizer, sang "Because," and "Blest be the Tie that Binds" was softly played, followed by the singing of "Oh Promise Me."

The bridesmaid, Miss Carol Benson, entered, dressed in pink taffeta bodice and full skirt, carrying pink roses, followed by the maid of honor, Miss Adeline Jarchow, sister of the bride. She was attired identically in aqua, carrying red roses, wearing long gloves and head dress to match.

The little flower girl, Barbara Benson of Rockford, wore a floor-length dress, fashioned as the others, of yellow with yellow rosebuds in her hair, carrying a basket of rose petals which she strew upon the path of the approaching bride on the arm of her father.

The bride was dressed in a gown of traditional white satin with a yoke of delicate lace, appliqued in soft satin and leg-of-mutton sleeves. Her long veil was held in place by a halo with pearl trim, a long peacock train adorned her dress.

Kenneth Benson served his brother as best man and Leroy Jarchow as groomsman.

Immediately after the service a luncheon was held in the church parlors to 125 guests. Later refreshments were served at the Jarchow home.

Out-of-town guests came from Joliet, Chicago, Buffalo, N. Y. and Rockford.

Mr. and Mrs. Benson have gone on a short wedding trip to Wisconsin, and upon their return they will live in the Jarchow home.

Beautiful Oregon Parade Described

Mrs. John E. Swisher of Tinley Park, in a letter this week, described the Portland, Ore., rose festival as "something I wish all the children I ever knew could see."

One of the most impressive of the myriad of "glorious" things in the festival parade was a throne for the rose queen and her eight princesses, the throne being the total of several millions of roses against a background of a mass of dark-blue delphiniums.

A high white sea horse rising out of white-crested blue waves seemed to Mrs. Swisher as a gigantic impounding in one spot of nature's vastness.

Describing other phases of the parade, Mrs. Swisher told of a float bearing the Seven Dwarfs with an eight-foot butterfly made of thousands of colored flowers gracefully borne upon clouds created from white sweet william and candytuft.

Mokena Methodists Attend Conference

The Rev. Robert Bieber, pastor Mokena Methodist church, is attending the annual session of the Methodist church Rock River conference. Mrs. Hugo Neithammer is attending as Mokena church's lay delegate.

The conference will continue through Sunday, June 29, when appointments for the ensuing year will be announced.

Vaughn of Lincoln Estates, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 21, in Calvary Baptist church in Lincoln Estates, with the Rev. Olaf Nelson officiating. The double-ring ceremony was used.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with long train and fingertip bridal veil and coronet of orange blossoms. Civic Club Asks Crossing Repair

Mokena's Civic club in meeting Wednesday evening, June 18, took steps to secure action by the Rock Island in repairing the railroad crossing at the depot.

Other subjects considered included a homecoming celebration for Mokena this year, but it was decided to discuss a homecoming program for 1948 when the club meets in August.

The club began a program which may lead to a cannon being placed in the old cemetery, it was reported.

EXPANDED EXHIBITION TO ATTRACT MANY; LARGE PRIZES ARE ASSURED

Carol Benson One Of Octette in Joliet

Miss Carol Benson, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Benson of Mokena, was one of an octet in a presentation of 80 fingers manipulating 352 ivory keys Thursday evening at Universalist church, Joliet. The occasion was the graduation exercises at the college.

Immanuel Church Aids Outdoor Pictures

Immanuel Lutheran church in Mokena will supply current to make possible the presentation of outdoor movies Monday and Tuesday night by the Cook Show, operated as a summer pastime by Mr. and Mrs. D. Cook of Chicago.

Mr. Cook has announced "Oklahoma Terror" for Monday night and "Born to Fight" Tuesday night. No admission is charged, although it is understood a collection will be taken to defray expenses.

Boy Scouts At Camp From July 6 to 12

Fifteen scouts of the Mokena troop are registered to go to the Scout reservation at Morris July 6 to 12. Four members of the troop committee, A. Shoop, Ed Dunham, George Kreml, and Berle Needham visited the camp last Wednesday evening and reported many improvements and added camp facilities.

Scouts are expected to give community service and earn their way as much as possible. Much of their camp fees are earned by paper collections. They will be out collecting paper on Friday and Saturday of this week. Citizens of Mokena are requested to call any one of the Scouts if they have an accumulation of paper for disposal in this way.

The board of review met on Monday to consider three applications for advancement. It approved the advancement of the following to the rank of first class: Steward Shoop, Russell Geuther, and James Needham. Four merit badge awards were approved, to Steward Shoop, Art, Russel Geuther, reading; Raymon Guhhouse, metal work, farm house and its planning, home repairs; James Needham, swimming.

A court of honor will be held in the Mokena school on next Monday at 8 o'clock, when awards will be made. All interested people are invited to be present, especially the parents of boys intending to go to camp this year.

Infant Dies

Dawn Ahlborn, infant daughter of Emory Ahlborn of Mokena, died Saturday and funeral services were held Monday with burial in St. John's cemetery. The baby's mother died in childbirth in Silver Cross hospital last February.

School Levy Vote

Tomorrow, Saturday, voters in Mokena school district 159 will vote on increasing the permissible levy for educational purposes to more than .50 and not more than .75. Reports received from this district and adjacent districts voting on the same proposition, some with varying amounts, indicate that voters generally will support the increase to prevent the closing of schools because of the criss-cross laws passed in Springfield.

Polling place in Mokena will be at the village hall. Polls will open at noon and close at 7 o'clock in the evening.

JOLLY TROOPERS

The Mokena Jolly Troopers 4-H club met Tuesday evening, June 17, in the school auditorium. A report was made by Audrey Neithammer on the recent paper drive. Following this report it was decided that the drive should be continued with the Neithammer home as collection depot.

The music appreciation study was concluded at this meeting with the singing of three songs, "Dixie," "Tir-atomba," and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." The history of each was presented by Beatrice Benson, Dolores Cooper, and Audrey Neithammer. The members of the Home Bureau attended this portion of the program.

A piano trio was played by Joyce and Rita Werner and Sally Roberts. The following demonstrations were made: "The construction of shoulder-pads" by Jean Cooper, "making attractive corsages" by Dorothy Kohl, "vegetable salads," by Alburn I. Steele, "belts wide and narrow" by Phyllis Gaddis, "care and brushing of teeth" by Shirley Bennett, and talks were given by Mary Ann Rinke and Joan Luplow on "grooming hints and the use of cosmetics." At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Joyce Werner and Dolores Cooper.

North Will county areas have been invited by the South Cook county 4-H clubs to participate in the forthcoming exhibition at Tinley Park in August.

While Will county's 4-H organization is a separate group, the South Cook boys and girls have expressed a desire for neighbors just south of the county line to participate in what started out to be just a small exhibition, but which, under the enthusiasm of business men of South Cook, has developed into what is expected to be a record-breaking 4-H exhibition. Business men in the Frankfort, New Lenox and Mokena areas are invited to exhibit at the 4-H fair.

Early in the year Tinley Park was selected by the 4-H groups as the site for the exhibition and Home Bureau exhibit. Business men of South Cook county became interested, and the 4-H clubs requested an appointment with Tinley Park Business Men's association to ask for the support of the organization. Other business men came to the meeting, and then was launched a campaign to raise at least $1,000 to be used as prize money for the exhibitors.

Instead of a few dollars for winners in the exhibition, it is now expected that funds will be available for paying the largest awards in the history of 4-H club exhibitions in this part of Illinois, if not in the state.

Cy Radcliffe of the firm of Mancke & Radcliffe of Tinley Park, a 4-H enthusiast and supporter, has been made chairman of the arrangements for the exhibition.

Discarding an earlier suggestion that funds be raised by printing a program and selling advertisements to merchants, under Mr. Radcliffe's leadership it was decided not to impose the heaviest burdens on business men alone, but, instead, to go to the public for solicitation for funds from $1 to as much as one may wish to donate.

Tickets are being sold as a part of the fund-raising campaign, and 4-H members are to make a widespread solicitation in all of South Cook and the neighboring areas of Will county. With the evident interest in all the areas involved, it is expected that several thousand people will attend the exhibition.

The dates for the 4-H exhibition and fair are August 27 and 28. The place will be Senger Grove, but with the applications it is thought likely the fair will overflow into roped-off streets.

Bridal Shower

Miss Morris and John DeAngelo of Chicago Heights will be married Saturday afternoon, June 28, at four o'clock in the Church of our Saviour, 24th and Wallace street, Chicago Heights.

Grass Fire Alarm In Lincoln Estates

ANCIENT VILLAGES PRESERVED . . . Fascinating villages, built by Indians centuries ago in inaccessible caves perched high in canyon walls, are preserved in Mesa Verde National park. The cliff cities, of which Cliff Palace (above) is typical, are noted for their size and excellence of building techniques.

NOT ONLY SCENERY

Rain Forests, Cliff Cities Show Diversity of Parks

WNU Features.

"National Parks" has become a synonymous phrase for superlative scenery, but there are also many other diverse interests represented in the national park system of the United States. In Olympic National park in Washington, for example, are unusual "rain forests," where, as a result of a mild climate and abundant winter rains, a tropical appearing jungle has been created far north in the temperate zone. Here also is the home of the rare Roosevelt elk, for the protection of which a part of the park was established as a national monument as early as 1908.

On the other hand, far to the south of the Olympics in the southwestern corner of Colorado, Mesa Verde National park preserves the ruins of a once flourishing civilization which was brought to an end by a lack of rainfall. The national parks also include two areas famous for their health-giving springs—Hot Springs National park in Arkansas and Platt National park in Oklahoma.

The Olympic mountains are known to thousands of veterans of World War II who returned to Puget sound ports from the Pacific theaters. From far out at sea these glistening snowy peaks were the first welcoming sight of home. Mount Olympus, nearly 8,000 feet in height, and a score or more of other ice-capped mountains are included in the 1,325 square miles of

National Parks Eighth In a Series

Olympic National park. Occupying the heart of a great peninsula, this park is surrounded on three sides by water, the Pacific ocean on the west, the Straits of Juan de Fuca to the north and Puget sound on the east. Within a few hours of Seattle and Tacoma are virgin forests, alpine meadows, deep blue lakes and sparkling trout streams, which constitute one of the finest unspoiled wilderness areas in the United States.

The rain forests are found in the lower valleys on the western slopes where from September 1 to June 1 there is an average annual rainfall of 142 inches, nearly 12 feet. In these rain forests are Douglas firs, measuring up to 17 feet in diameter and 221 feet in height.

There are many miles of foot and horseback trails in Olympic National park and a motor highway encircles the peninsula. From this main highway other roads radiate for short distances into the park.

IN THE CORNER of Colorado where the Rocky mountains meet the arid highlands of the Southwest there rises a high flat-topped table-shaped mountain. Early Spanish explorers called it the Mesa Verde, for the table top, heavily forested with pinon and juniper, was always green. On this green mesa and in its caves and canyons peaceful farming Indians lived for 1,300 years, cultivating the soil and built their villages or pueblos. To preserve the ruins of these fascinating villages, Mesa Verde National park has been established. The area of the park is 80 square miles.

According to archeologists the Indians came to America from their Asiatic homeland by the northern route thousands of years ago and for many centuries lived as roving hunters. About the beginning of the Christian Era certain of early hunters arrived in the region of the Mesa Verde. They liked the security afforded by this high mountain with its peculiar cliffs, and settled down to farm. First inhabitants of the Mesa Verde were known as Basket Makers for, while they made excellent baskets, they had no pottery, nor did they use the bow and arrow. They lived in open caves and hunted with the throwing stick. Later they learned the art of pottery making, acquired bows and arrows and built simple pit houses.

About the time that Charles Martel was defeating the Moors at Tours, or roughly in the Eighth century, a new people joined the Basket Makers on the Mesa Verde and together they made remarkable cultural progress. On the mesa top they built hundreds of villages, some with buildings of mud and others of stone. They improved their pottery and began the weaving of cotton cloth.

These people apparently were peace loving, and in the 11th century about the time that William the Conqueror was landing in Britain, they also were beset by enemies. Many of them, therefore, moved off the open mesa top and constructed their villages in inaccessible caves located high in canyon walls. These villages, many of them well preserved today, are astonishing both for their size and excellence of building techniques.

Toward the end of the 13th century, a 24-year-long drouth forced these people to abandon their cliff cities and move to more favorable lands.

HOT SPRINGS National park, located in a mountainous region of central Arkansas, contains in its thousand acres 47 mineral hot springs reputed to have therapeutic value. These springs were known to the Indians and early Spaniards, and were used by them. Within the national park are free campsites and there is a free government bathhouse for people who cannot afford to pay for private baths.

PLATT NATIONAL park, containing bromide and sulphur springs, is located at the town of Sulphur, Okla. Small in area, this park is known chiefly by those for whom the waters are prescribed. The park is provided with free campgrounds and picnic areas, and overnight accommodations may be found in Sulphur.

VIRGIN FOREST . . . Large spruce trees abound along Hoh river in Olympic National park, one of the finest unspoiled wilderness areas in the country.

Primitive Area Is 'Last Frontier'

LEWISTON, IDA. — Preservation of the 1,800,000 acres of primitive area in north Idaho as the last frontier in the United States "for all time to come" is the objective of the U. S. Forest service.

Generally reputed to be the wildest region in America, the Selway Bitter Root primitive area embraces Bitter Root, Nez Perce, Clearwater and Lolo National forests. Travelers can enter the area either by plane, a western pack train or by hobnail boots, plus plenty of good old-fashioned determination.

R. H. Rutledge, Idaho regional forester, summed up the plans when he said: "We wish to hold and maintain frontier conditions such as our forefathers met with mystery, romance, freedom of use and inspirational qualities unimpaired and preserved for future generations."

Farmers Repairing Equipment at Home

Increased Use of Arc Welding Aid to Farm

World War II and the rapid extension of government-approved rural power lines to meet farm production emergencies contributed, more than any other factors, to the widespread use of transformer-type electric arc welders on farms. Welding was an entirely new job to most farmers when the war started, but before it had progressed many months, scores of them had become old hands at the "fix it up, make it do" trade.

Thus a war-taught talent enters the peacetime picture with increasing popularity. Experience showed that many broken parts could be welded satisfactorily without having to remove them from the machine and that such equipment then could be returned to the fields promptly—especially when time-saving welding jobs were done on the farm. Also, farmers soon learned that they could use their welders to construct new equipment out of scrap parts and modify present equipment to suit their particular needs, as well as make necessary repairs.

With the use of welders, discarded repair parts and scrap metal can be made into feed cars, manure loaders, buck rakes, milk can trucks and racks, disc harrows and trailers; broken sickle bars, tractor wheel rims and spokes, tractor hitch drawbars, spring tooth points, gears, gear teeth and sprockets can be repaired, and horse-drawn equipment is modified for tractor use.

Merely Using Your Head Will Save Your Heels

Is there an easier, better way to do that job? Purdue university answers with: "Yes, there probably is. There is an easy and a hard way, a labor-saving and a labor-wasting way to do any job. Few of us are doing our farm job the easiest way. If we use our heads we can save our heels—as well as time, energy and expense. But we rarely take time to save time. We don't figure out the easiest, most effective way—we just get the job done."

heads we can save our heels—as well as time, energy and expense. But we rarely take time to save time. We don't figure out the easiest, most effective way—we just get the job done."

Grasshopper's Day

Believing that there is an important relationship between the intensity of sunlight, air temperature, the body temperature of the grasshopper, and where and when the pests do their eating, Professors Pepper and Hastings, Montana State college, have designed a special thermocouple with which to take the temperature of grasshoppers.

Crop Rotation Plan Should Be Balanced

Unless a farm has a well balanced rotation for its fields, the chances are that the farmer who works that land is depleting the soil and getting lower yields of the crops he grows.

Dr. R. L. Cook, soils specialist at Michigan State college, says that there are several ways in which crop rotation may result in soil improvement. If a cultivated crop is continuously produced on one field, the organic matter content of the field is decreased.

Rotation will help to distribute organic matter over the whole farm.

Castrate Pigs Early For Market Results

The earlier pigs intended for market are castrated the better they will weigh in. When pigs are castrated at three to four weeks of age, they are easier to handle, the wounds heal more quickly and the pigs are usually under closer supervision so that the wounds can be watched closely. Incisions should be made low to permit good drainage and to give the finished barrow a neater appearance.

Tariff Issue 'Dead'

THE TARIFF, as a political party issue, is dead. For many years it appeared as the leading plank in both major party platforms. Half a century ago Mark Hanna, with a "full dinner pail" slogan based on a high protective tariff, elected McKinley to the presidency on the Republican ticket.

In the 1880's and 1890's and for the first quarter of this century, aside from the second Wilson campaign when "he kept us out of war" was of greater appeal than the Republican high tariff, the tariff was the only real issue between the two parties. Manufacturing industry was largely located in the North and East; food farming was in the North Central states. The South was almost exclusively agricultural, with cotton its one crop.

The manufacturing and food producing sections demanded high protective tariffs. It meant, by protecting the home market, high wages, and better profits in the factories, and higher prices on the American market for food products. Europe could not feed itself, and would buy American-produced food even though we prevented the sale in this country of its manufactured products. The South was interested in a European market for its cotton, and in buying the manufactured commodities it needed from those who would sell at the lowest price. The Northeast and North Central states, with the greater number of electoral votes, named the President, and picked the man representing the high tariff policy, except on those rare occasions when the errors or follies of the Republican more than offset their high tariff advantage.

We were then a debtor nation. Foreign capital was heavily invested in development of our resources, and in our transportation and our industrial enterprises. We were paying interest, for ocean transportation, interest to every nation, and none were paying interest to us. The money we paid for interest, for ocean transportation, for shipping insurance, came back to us in payment for our food products. In those days food and cotton represented some 75 per cent of our exports.

Today we are the big creditor nation of the world. We have paid off the mortgage held by Europe, and are no longer paying interest. The result of the war thrust both financial and political leadership upon the United States. Instead of Europe financing our development, we now are financing Europe. Instead of the interest money we formerly paid coming back to us in payment for food, we now are having to dig down in our jeans for the price to provide Europe with both food and manufactured consumer commodities, urgently needed if Europe is to survive.

Conditions have changed our entire setup, and have taken the tariff out as a political difference. In place of the tariff as a leading issue, we now have the problem: Shall we, or shall we not, attempt to finance the rest of the world? We can have all the orders for what we are willing to provide the payments. Are we to be the world's banker and take our chances on bad debts? It is the pros and cons of such a program that will be the leading issue of the next campaign.

The Wallace Way

IN HIS CAPACITY of secretary of agriculture, Henry A. Wallace and others, including Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, attempted to secure enactment of a bill that, if passed, would have permitted the secretary of agriculture to send a merchant to jail for a year for advertising that "he sold the best flour in town." The bill would have given the secretary full authority to punish any merchant for any advertising statement, either direct or by intimation, with which the secretary did not agree, or considered false or misleading. There was to have been no court appeal permitted. Under present conditions, Wallace, if still secretary of agriculture, probably would like such a law to include the President of the United States as one whom the secretary could send to jail for making what the secretary considered "false or misleading statements." Wallace undoubtedly would be pleased to send President Truman to jail for the rest of his life under consecutive sentences.

A BOY of some 17 years was in the police court for having violated a city ordinance prohibiting riding bicycles on the sidewalk. "I prefer to ride on the sidewalks," he told the judge, "and I do not recognize the right of a cheap cop to stop me." He got a $5 fine, and found there was someone from whom he must take orders. He had not previously learned that at either home or school. The boy and the pedestrian he struck, were both victims of the so-called "progressive" education.

Tinley Park News

by Mrs. E. C. Grunzt

Tel. Tinley Park 598

About 50 relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schilling Saturday evening June 14, to help them celebrate their 30th wedding anniversary. Cards were played during the evening, after which a turkey dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Schilling received many beautiful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schilling visited in Chicago Wednesday June 18. They attended the W. L. S. Dinner bell time and were interviewed over the radio. Mrs. Schilling, in honor of her 30th wedding anniversary, rang the large dinner bell at the beginning of the program. A beautiful string of pearls were presented Mrs. Schilling from her two daughters, Alma and Lucille, and to Mr. Schilling a belt and pearl buckle.

Sunday, June 22, a family gathering was held in the Christ Schilling home in Tinley Park. All children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren attended. A potluck dinner was served to about 60 guests. Dean Hupe from Homewood was the oldest great-grandchild and Karen Rahm of New Lenox was the youngest.

The Mark W. Talmadge family are vacationing in Lake Wawawsee, Ind. They left last Sunday.

Miss Rita Kopp was graduated from the Calumet high school Thursday evening. She has been on the honor roll and has received the Honor Society pin.

Bernadette Kopp is spending this week at the 4-H camp in Cherry Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sproat and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sproat and daughter visited in the Willard Rowley home last Sunday evening.

There will be no meeting of the Wayside Workers Circle of King's Daughters in July.

STRANGE PEOPLE ROAM
NEW YORK MOUNTAINS

They brought Gilbert Pitt down from Half Moon mountain last month. It was his last journey—one of the few he'd taken from his cabin in the Ramapo mountains, 35 miles northwest of New York, in all his 80 years. Pathfinder recounts.

Legend says Pitt was blood kin to William Pitt, first Earl of Chatham, and was last of his scrapping, poverty-stricken clan. But none really knew Pitt's ancestry, or whether he was one with the mysterious folk who've roamed the Ramapos since the Revolution.

"Jackson Whites" is what people call the dark-skinned, sullen, sickly families who drift from their mountain shanties to sell berries, wood carvings, or baskets for the few dollars that keep them each year.

One family may produce features varying from Germanic blondness to kinky hair and copper skin.

Now and then a group moves to the valley. But several thousand remain in the hills, and the population is said to be increasing. In summer they hunt and fish. In winter they weave and carve. They dispense justice by knife or shotgun, maintain a solid, resentful front against outside intrusion.

Rev. Heitzman announced at the morning service, that anyone who wishes to attend Tower Hill camp, or the new Church Camp near Princeton, should let him know at once.

Crazy Hat
Wins Refrigerator!

One of those "Breakfast in the morning" radio shows came to Capitol City last week, and Sarrah Carey won first prize for wearing the craziest hat in the audience. It was a full-sized refrigerator! (The prize, not the hat.)

"Glad them hats of hers paid off at last," says Ed, treating the whole thing like a joke. But you could see he was proud of Sarrah.

From where I sit, there's another thing Ed can be proud of: the way he's put up with those hats of Sarrah's, with never a criticism; just as she's put up with Ed's pipe and the other little freedoms he enjoys.

They've got that refrigerator home now, stocked with beer; and we're going over tonight to drink a toast—not just to Sarrah's hats taking first prize... but to a happily married couple, who've learned to live with one another's differences in tastes—whether it's a taste for hats or beer!

At an all-day meeting of the Merry Maidens 4-H Club in the home of Mrs. Wray White, their leader, last Monday, plans were made to attend the County day camp in Joliet Monday. Four of the local group will also go on the University of Illinois tour this week.

Talks were given by Shirley Burch, Adella Reiter, Mary Buck and Gloria Reiter, on "More Wear from Your Shoes," "Fitting Sleeves," "Cloth Coats" and "Hem Difficulties." Demonstrations on "Pressing" by Anna Mae Brankey and "Dress Fasteners" by Patsy White were interesting features.

Charlotte Goodman, Arlene and Adella Reiter who are members of the rural chorus, went to Ottawa for rehearsal recently. They will sing at the Chicago and music festival and at the Illinois state fair. Another meeting of the local group was from 10 to 3 o'clock Wednesday of this week with Mrs. White.

Mr. and Mrs. B.D. Brankey and daughters attended the graduation at Purdue University Sunday June 15 when their son George received his diploma.

A miscellaneous pre-nuptial shower for Miss Lucille Ott of Lockport was given in the home of Mesdames Peter and Clarence Wies Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Walter Konow was assistant hostess. Games and contests occupied the afternoon and dainty refreshments were served. The bride-to-be, whose marriage will occur the latter part of June, received many lovely gifts. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ott, former Homer residents, and a niece of Mrs. Peter Weis and Mrs. Konow.

The Homer Aces played a Lemont team at the home grounds with a winning score of 6 to 2 Sunday afternoon.

Last Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. B.F. Ingersoll were pleasantly surprised by a group of friends from Joliet who brought refreshments and spent the evening in their home. They were Mr. and Mrs. William Deeming and daughter Janet, Miss Betty Allott and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Reichardt. The party was in honor of Mrs. Ingersoll's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Waldvogel had as dinner guests Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kettering and Harold Kettering of Brentford, South Dakota.

Mrs. Mary Meyers spent Sunday in Plainfield as the guest of her daughter Mrs. Clarence Rowley and family.

Mrs. Jacob McGuire was hostess at a Stanley Brush party in her home Tuesday afternoon.

ACCUSED . . . Charged by American authorities with committing "dreadful" atrocities against captured prisoners of war in Japan, Tomoya Kawakita, American-born Japanese, was arrested in Los Angeles for treason. An American soldier whom Kawakita is said to have mistreated recognized him and put G-men on his trail.

TO HEAD MISSION . . . Dwight P. Griswold, former Republican governor of Nebraska, has been named by President Truman to head U. S. mission to administer American aid to hard-pressed Greece.

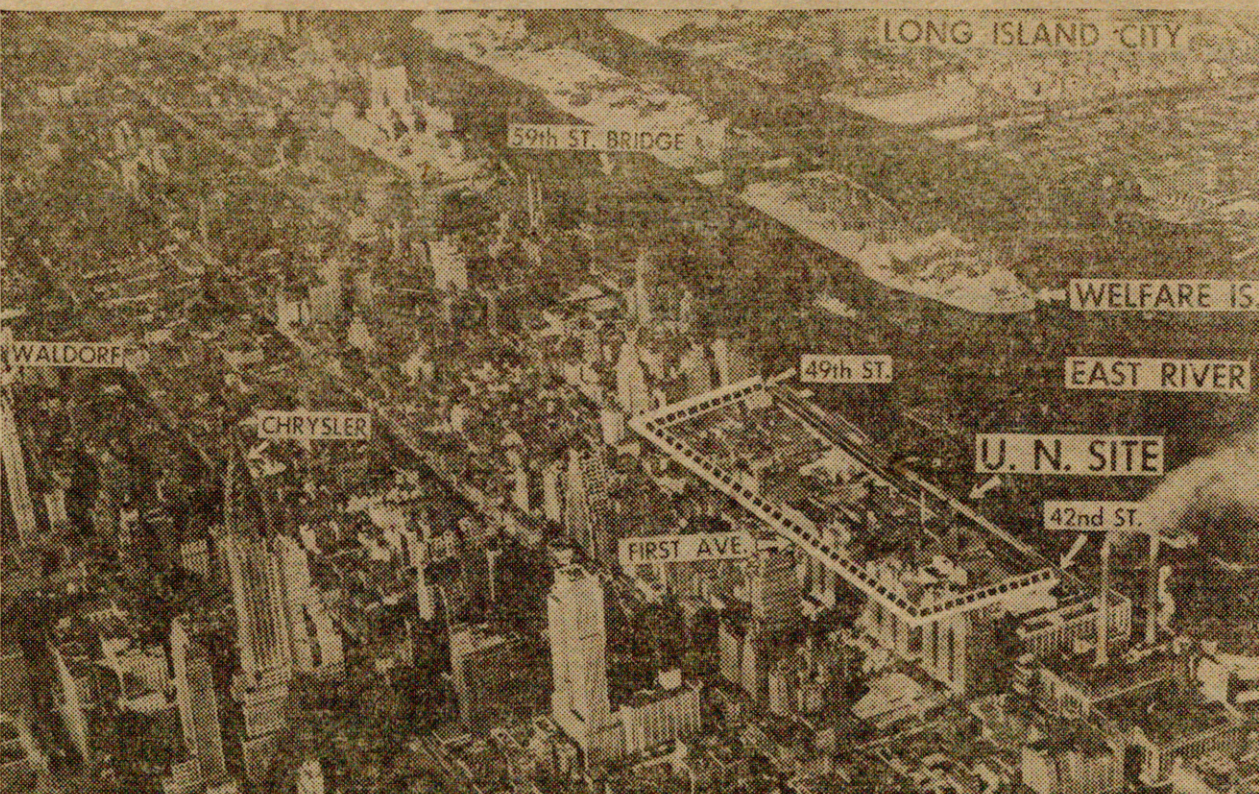

MINISTER . . . This picture of Selden Chapin, minister-delegate to Hungary, was taken as he entered the White House for a visit with President Truman, and probably to talk about Hungary.

BROTHERHOOD . . . Radio songstress Kate Smith received 1947 American brotherhood arts and sciences citations for her work. The award was given by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

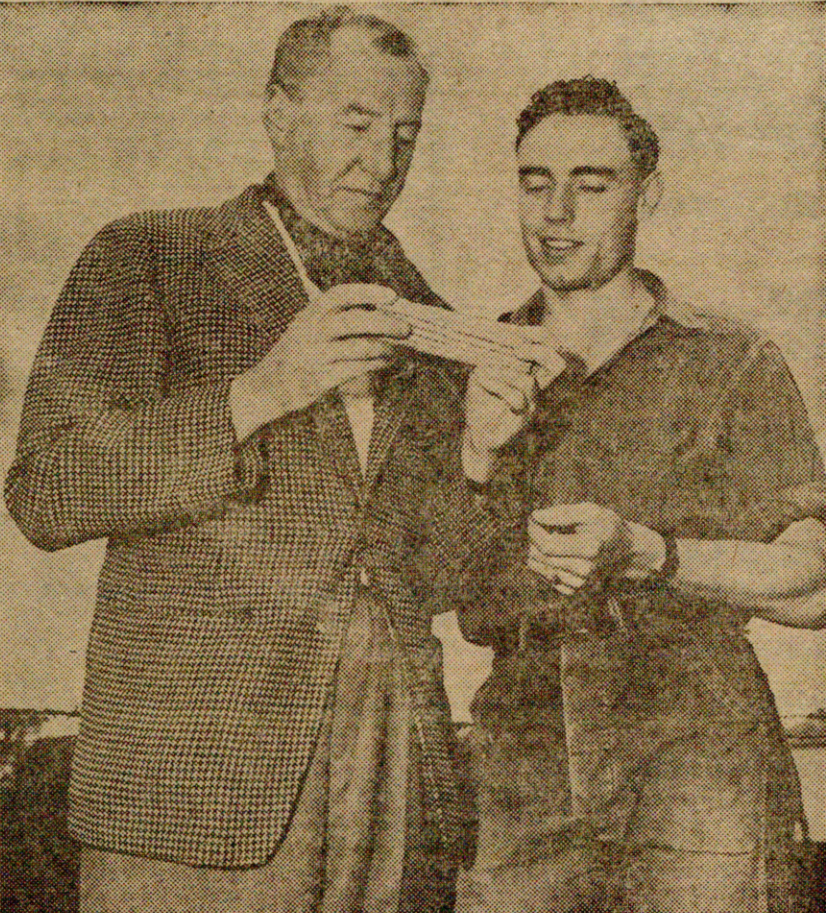

HOOVER REPORTS . . . FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover was called before senate judiciary committee to explain why FBI's investigation of primary election fraud in Kansas City was not carried to completion.

WORLD CAPITAL TO RISE HERE . . . Striking aerial view shows the section of New York—midtown Manhattan—where the world capital, headquarters of the United Nations, is scheduled to rise on the site donated by John D. Rockefeller and New York City. The site, as outlined, runs from 42nd street to 49th street and from First avenue to the East river. View is looking east.

SO IT'S NOT IMPOSSIBLE . . . There was a great flurry of brushes and pigment as 100 painters in Salt Lake City ganged up on a two-story, seven-room house and painted it—including trimming for windows, eaves and doors—in nine minutes and seven seconds. The stunt was part of the civic beautification program for Utah's centennial celebration and it resulted in a new record for a fast brush-off.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA . . . Lord Inverchapel, British ambassador to the United States, and his young American farm friend, Roger Newburn, got together again at the latter's farm home near Eagle Grove, Iowa. It was the diplomat's second visit to the Newburn home since he met Roger while the lad was on a 4-H tour in Washington, D. C., a year ago. Lord Inverchapel spent three days with the Newburn family while on a speaking tour through Nebraska and Iowa. Here, the ambassador examines an ear of famous Iowa corn.

JAPAN'S DEMOCRATIC LEADER . . . Clad in a kimono and looking extremely benevolent, as befits his office, Tetsu Katayama, new prime minister of the Japanese democratic government, is shown with his wife in the backyard of their home in Tokyo. The Katayamas, parents of two daughters and a son, have not yet moved to the official residence which Japan provides for the comfort of its premiers.

Kidneys Must Work Well—

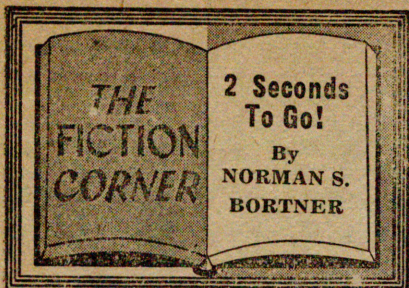

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

DOAN'S PILLS

I WONDERED why I shouldn't let Carl Bullard drown. It wasn't that I hated him. He was a nice enough fellow. Just a boy, of course, and too sentimental and too soft and too rich. If only he hadn't married Constance. I'd have saved him in half a minute, but for that... Instead, I watched the water swirl over his head—and wondered.

No one could know what I had done—that I had killed him almost as much as if I had pushed him down and held him under the surface.

How could they ever know? I was quiet and still on the edge of the pier with my feet dangling in the cool water and a cigarette between my fingers. Behind me sat Carl Bullard's wife talking calmly with some of her guests, and behind her the shore-line of Carl Bullard's land stretched away serene and smooth to Carl Bullard's roomy house on the opposite side of Carl Bullard's cove.

And I stared down between my toes at Carl Bullard's white body in the water.

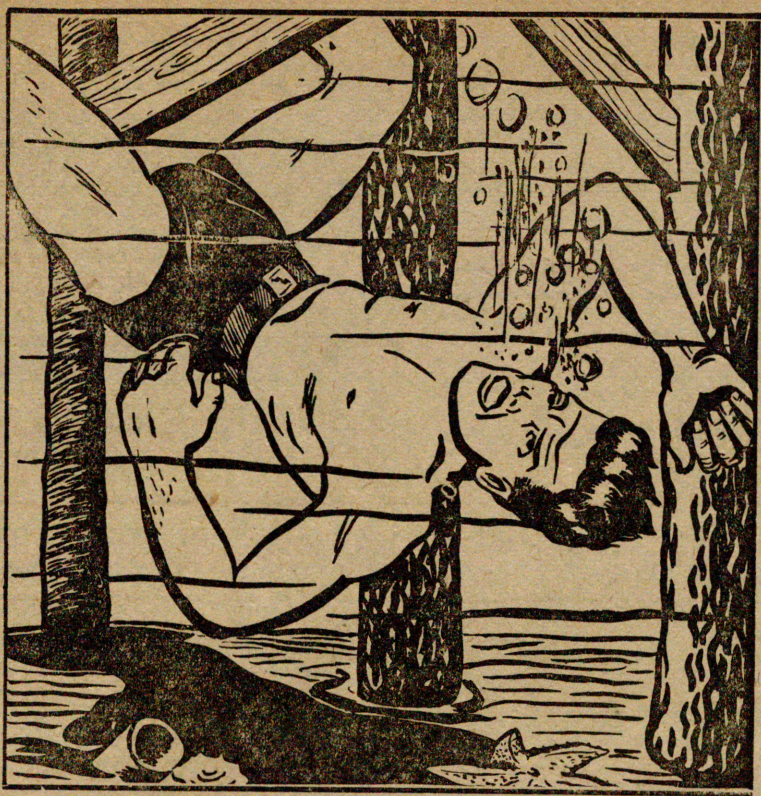

He had looked straight at me as he went down. It was a queer, tortured, pleading sort of a look, as if he knew exactly what was happening to him and was trying to tell me with his eyes. He had opened his mouth to cry out, shipped a full gasp of water into that boyish chest of his and gone down with hardly more than a ripple. Cramps, I guess. I'd seen the same thing before, but not so quick.

The cove was twelve feet deep at the end of the pier, and greenly translucent to the yellow, sandy bottom. It seemed almost too clear—too innocent—to kill a man, but I knew it was happening. I could see Carl Bullard's slow, convulsive thrashing. He was not yet half-way down.

How long would it be before he touched the sand? Two seconds? Ten? But how eternally long a second can be...

Constance had warned him. Said it was too soon after lunch. Said he ought to wait a while. But he had laughed in that small-boy way he had and chuckled her under the chin. And then he had run across the pier to jump in over my head. I could still feel the little breeze of his passing. It was cold on my wet back.

It was the chin-chucking, I think, that made me sit still while he sank. Constance was not a woman to be chuckled under the chin. You wouldn't sing swing in a church, would you? That's what I mean. I'm a fine one to talk about churches, but that's what Constance does to me. Yesterday I saw her for the first time in three years, and it's worse with me now than it was then. A lot worse. Deeper. Not boy-and-girl stuff any more. Man and woman. And she's married to Carl Bullard.

How long would it be before he touched the sand? Two seconds? Ten? But how eternally long a second can be...

She would have married me if things had gone right. They hadn't, though. I thought a year in Buenos Aires—at an unbelievable salary—would give me my start. Instead of that, three years in Buenos Aires and amazing bad luck at any and all forms of gambling gave me a taste for living and little to live on. Three years...

There had been letters between us, the first few months. "Gee, I miss you Connie. Wish my year was up." "I miss you too, Aleck. Seems like a year already. Keep writing often."

BUT the letters slowed down after a while, and then stopped altogether. My fault, I know. I couldn't keep lying to her about the money. I was supposed to be saving it.

It was well in my second year that I heard she'd been married. The news filtered down to me one way or another. I didn't mind, then. I had other diversions.

Three years is a long time. Almost as long as it was taking Carl Bullard to reach the yellow sand. He was near it, now, and not clearly outlined. Just a slow-moving blur... Three years was enough to give me a lifetime's fill of everything Argentinian.

Somehow Constance heard I had come back, and she wrote to me. Just a friendly, welcome-back note. That meant she held no hard feelings. The boy-and-girl stuff was done with.

And yet I suddenly wanted to see her, talk with her. I found her here at the cove. She was still the Constance I remembered, if a little subdued, a little settled and satisfied.

But there was something in her eyes, when she looked at me, that made me wish I'd never gone away from her. A glow. Not just friendliness. More than that.

It was the glow in her eyes that kept me at the cove. I wouldn't have stayed at the Bullard place except for that.

A flock of guests as dull and chattering as guests always are. A husband who kept grinning at her like a gawky boy, and patting her arm and chucking her under the chin. The glow in her eyes—whenever she looked at me—made up for all of that.

I wanted to take my stare from Carl Bullard's body—now nearly on the sand—and look over my shoulder toward Constance. I wanted to see those glowing eyes again, meeting mine. But I didn't move.

Instead I thought of something very interesting. If I were to sit still only a little longer, the pier and the house and the cove—and a great deal more—would belong to Constance. She'd be wealthy, and with a glow in her eyes when she looked at me.

Three years in the Argentine for nothing, and three minutes on Carl Bullard's pier—for everything I wanted. Why shouldn't I let Carl Bullard drown?

IT'S STRANGE, when you're tense and still, how all your senses become sharp beyond normality. While I watched the greenish-white blur that was Carl Bullard, the feminine voices behind me, which before had been unintelligible, became clear and distinct. Constance talking to her guests.

"That water looks so good," she said. "I wish I could go in."

"Why don't you, Connie? I wondered why you hadn't."

"Sh-h. Doctor's orders."

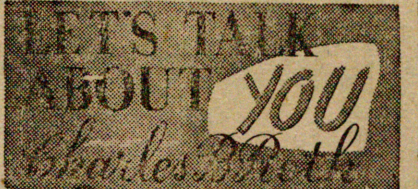

There was a pause. "Connie! You don't?"

"You might as well know now as later, I guess. ... It'll be in December. Haven't you noticed the way I've put on weight?"

"Why, my dear, we had no idea! But now I know why Carl has been so attentive. And that sparkle in your eyes, Connie. All the signs..."

The sparkle in her eyes. The glow. Carl Bullard's body was on the sand at last, tumbling awkwardly, shapelessly.

My cigarette dropped into the water. I heard it hiss. And then I dived in without taking time to stand. Carl Bullard's grip nearly broke my arm...

YOU CAN WHIP NERVOUSNESS

After we'd spent an hour together in his hotel room, this man and I, I was almost as nervous as he was. During that hour he had paced up and down, his hands shaking, his eyes glancing furtively to all corners of the room.

I don't need to tell you, do I, how ineffective a personality he was? You know, of course, that nervousness is fatal to a personality, yet nerve specialists tell me that three out of four persons "wear their nerves on the outside of their clothes."

Take the most successful person you know, the one with the most effective personality. Was not that person a serene person?

Some men and women tell me that they are nervous because they were born nervous. I think the man who had the most calmness and serenity I have ever known, when I commended him upon these things, remarked that he wasn't born with them at all. He said he had to acquire them.

"Up till three years ago I was the most nervous person in the world," he told me. "Then an old doctor put me on the right track. He advised me, each night when the day's work was done to go home, take a leisurely hot bath, put on pajamas and get into bed for twenty minutes, not to sleep, but merely to relax all over."

That practice not only robbed him of nervousness, but made him much more effective in everything he did.

Our Heritage From Ancient Israel

LESSON TEXT FOR JUNE 29—Psalm 119:105; Isaiah 2:2-4; Micah 6:1-8. MEMORY SELECTION—He will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths.—Isaiah 2:3.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

AT THE end of the road the Hebrew nation may have—yes, should have—stopped to look back and see what it had accomplished. Israel was now in exile, to return only in part, and with greatly limited greatness and glory.

What was God's purpose for Israel? It was threefold:

(1) To be a repository for his truth in the earth.

(2) To be a channel for the coming of the personal Redeemer to the earth.

(3) To be a national witness to the one true God to the other nations of the earth.

The first two they fulfilled. They kept for us the Word of God as revealed in the Old Testament, and from their nation came most of the men through whom the Holy Spirit wrote the New Testament. It was through their nation that the Son of God came as Jesus of Nazareth, our Saviour and Lord.

But they failed to be the witness that God had meant them to be—and for this they came under his judgment.

Were they then a complete failure? Certainly not—our lesson makes that clear in three ways. Teachers will find the scriptures not too well selected, but they do serve as a background for these thoughts. The nation Israel showed us:

I. The Enlightening Word of God (Ps. 119:105).

LET us never forget that the precious Word of God, which is our light on the way through this dark world, came to us through Jewish hands.

The Old Testament, which we come to appreciate more and more as we grow in grace and knowledge of the Lord, was committed to Israel by inspiration of the Holy Spirit, and preserved by the Jewish nation even at the cost of their own lives. Nothing was more precious to them than the sacred Scripture. We owe them a great debt of gratitude, and ought to honor them for their service to God and man.

We may say then that the Bible, unsurpassed in all the world of literature, and beyond comparison as the guiding light for man's heart and life, was given to us through Israel. We could well say a hearty "Thank you" for that right now if we have never done it before!

II. The Exalted Worship of God (Isa. 2:2-4).

THE prophet looks into the future to that glorious and blessed day when the nations shall have learned to live in peace and righteousness, when war shall be no more, and the worship of God shall be the desire and the joy of men.

When will that day come? Will it be brought in by the efforts of the church, or by conferences of national leaders? Not for a moment would we minimize the value of every true effort to spread peace and righteousness through the earth. We honor those who faithfully try to bring concord in the affairs of men.

But the clear teaching of Scripture, which has been so abundantly proved by experience, is that we can expect the delightful condition of which Isaiah speaks only when the Prince of Peace himself has returned to reign, namely, our Lord and Saviour and coming King, Jesus Christ. We look for that day!

In that blessed time Israel shall worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness, even as their history under the hand of God in days past was one of true worship of the Lord.

Here again they made an enduring contribution to the life of the world. Then note their witness to

III. The Effective Work of God (Mic. 6:1-8).

WE HAVE here words of another Hebrew prophet. He speaks of God's plain dealings with his people, his judgment upon their sin, and the need of a careful and a worthy walk before him.

Back of all the admonition and appeal is the remembrance of how God had worked on behalf of Israel, delivering them from bondage, giving them effective leaders, going before them in battle, in fact, proving his goodness and love by his mighty works.

Israel's service for God and man is an example of what God can and will do for those who obey him and walk with him. It is equally true that they thus reveal the inevitable judgment which comes upon a sinful and disobedient nation. Let us not miss that lesson, for we need it today. Tea Roses

Ever-blooming in habit, giving you a floral display from early summer until fall, tea roses cannot endure cold and in all except the southern states must be protected in order to survive the winter. They bloom on shoots from the current season's wood and are ordinarily trained as low bushes, although there are some climbers in this group. In beds they should be spaced about 18 inches apart.

Food for Gods

Ambrosia—"food for the gods"—is a favorite dessert made with oranges. To make it, peel the orange and take the white membrane from the outside and between sections. Sprinkle the mouth sized bites of orange with sugar, if needed, and with shredded coconut. For a change, sliced bananas might be added to this dessert.

Causes Twilight

If there were no atmosphere over the earth's surface there would be no twilight. The absence of atmosphere would cause darkness to set in sharply at sunset; but with it, even when the sun is some distance below the horizon, the upper layers of air are illuminated and reflect light.

Safe Highways

On the showing that the desirable safe capacity of a 2-lane road is 3,000 vehicles a day on an annual average, there are now in the neighborhood of 14,000 miles which should be made 4-lane to be classed as adequate. This mileage is on heavily-traveled state routes.

Color Blind

Color blindness is 14 times more prevalent among boys than girls, a survey of New York school children discloses, according to the Better Vision Institute. Of 1,859 boys, 97 were color blind, but only 8 out of 2,193 girls had deficient color vision.

Latins Like Fluorescence

An electrical manufacturing company reports a heavier demand for fluorescent lighting per capita in South America than in the United States, due to building redesigning campaigns being pushed in every Latin city.

Need Vitamin C

There is a daily need of vitamin C because the body can store very little of it. It has a special function to perform in keeping many of the body tissues healthy. Vitamin C is especially important in maintaining sound, healthy gums. A diet somewhat low in this vitamin for a long time brings about soreness of the joints and muscles, fatigue and loss of appetite.

Wide Roads

Motorists who think of American highways as typified by the Pennsylvania Turnpike or Davison Highway will be surprised to learn we have in the United States only 5,191 miles of 4-lane type, 736 miles of 3-lane type and some 300 miles of 6-lane. These 4-lane and upward roadways are only .015 per cent of the total rural mileage.

Merrie England

Bull and bear baiting continued from the 12th century through the days of Shakespeare in an arena near the Globe theater, across the Thames from London. In the 12th century, too, horse racing took place in Smithfield, just northwest of the London wall, where a horse market was held.

See in Dark

Remarkable optical devices which enable military observers to see in the total darkness were perfected in this country during the war. Invisible infra-red light rays are converted into visible light which can be seen by the eyes of observers.

Tomato Cups

Tomatoes, which combine vitamin A and C value, make attractive cups for individual servings of chopped vegetables, such as cabbage, green pepper and celery. Many canned tomatoes hold their shape well enough to be used as cups.

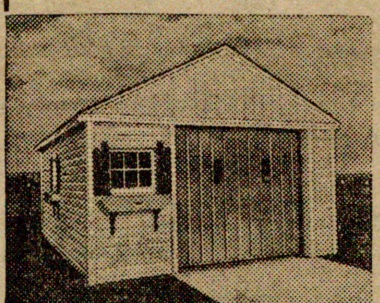

Coming Thing

A Twentieth Century fund report estimates that television service will be available to 100 million people within the next five-year period, with annual sales at 3.5 million sets a year and with total retail sales between 600 and 700 million dollars.
